Free Online Training for AP Coordinators

The AP Coordinator Tutorial—a new, free online resource for AP Coordinators—is available at www.collegeboard.org/apcoordinator tutorial.

This set of brief videos (5-10 minutes each) is designed to give new AP Coordinators—many of whom aren't able to attend the face-to-face "Organizing Your Exam Administration" workshops—instruction on key topics related to administering 2013 AP Exams. The videos are presented by Derek Kameda, a College Board consultant and AP Coordinator for the Harker School in San Jose, Calif. On the tutorial page, Coordinators will also find related links and downloads for each section, as well as a supplemental handout about online score reports.

New Online Professional Development for AP Biology

The second of two self-paced online professional development courses, Introduction to AP Biology, which covers changes in the 2012-13 redesigned course, is now available. The companion online course released earlier this year, AP Biology: Transitioning to Inquiry-Based Labs, describes inquiry and its place in the classroom. AP Biology teachers can sign up and get help with their lab and classroom preparation throughout the school year.
